Women's Stout Oxford Shoes

Their story is secret histroy of the shoe trade. At first they bore a distinguished trade mark and never vere offered at less than $3.50.

Now they are christened "Paragon," and are to be 'extinguished at One Dollar and Fifty Cents.

What isn't in a name? The shoes are not changed; but, without what isn't in a name? The snoes are not changed; but, without their family name, $2 comes out of the price. Two dollars for you in the nameless bargain. All sizes and widths.

Three leathers—kidskin, box calfskin, enamelled leather. Solid extension soles, broad flat heels, adapted to hill climbing and golf.

This sort of shoes is very popular with college-bred women. Culture discovers merit. Two pairs are the minimum for a vacation outfit. Will New York appreciate this royal opportunity? The answer is
